HONGE NO. OCTOBER 7TH, 1:67.

WE may say without fear of contradiction that His Excellency Sir William Das Volus has made a good first impression in the Colony he has just come to govern. The unpretending simplicity of his few words of greeting to the Council and public, after taking the oaths, his unaffected demeanour, and his natural courtesy have combined to strongly prepossess those of the community covered in the coming month. The Mainichi present in his favour. Sir WILLIAM DES VŒUX announced no policy, made no promises. No violated pledges can therefore be brought up against him in the future. Hongkong has bad enough of promises -coften none too wel fulfilled-to welcome a Governor who comes empty-handed and merely, gives the residents friendly greeting. We know but little of the new Governor, but all that we do know cal evidence and said his opinion was that deis greatly in his fevour, and we may therefore well take him on trust and give him credit for every good intention. That he is missarist Pier next to the Wellington Barracks neither a weak man nor a vain man one glauce at his resolute face is sufficient to assure the most careless of physiognomists. His missariat boat was ordered to pick up the quiet remark that he preferred deeds to words is, we hope, an indication that his administration with be marked by activity. firmness, and impartiality.

a number of detectives at its own expense, and it is within the personal knowledge of one of us that it has done really good service in the past.

But for want of a "home" or building to house such girls as have been now brought before the charge of these girls simply because there was no place else for them. It is evident, however, that a hospital is a place for sick people, and that the committee should not be troubled with a that the scheme can be officially sanctioned. WASHINGTON, 7th September. Count Mitkiewicz called on Assistant Secretary of State Porter to-day and presented a letter from United States Consul Smithers at Tientein, China, commending the Count in complimentary terms. The Count also presented Assistant Secretary Porter with a picture of His Excellency Li Hung-chang of China, it having been delivered to the Count by the Viceroy, with directions to present it to Assistant Secretary Porter with the compliments and good wishes of the Viceroy. Count Mitkiewicz has another photograph of the Viceroy, which he is to deliver

Gladstone was invited as the guest of the committee, and he was inform d by the gentlem in who conveyed to him the invitation that it was the only one sent to any person not an American citizen or an accredited diplomat, the exception in this case being intended as an axpression of recognition of the historical ties which bound Great Britain and America before the declaration of judependence. LONDON, 7th September. Commenting on the invitation received by Gladstone from the Executive Committee to at tend the centennial celebration at Philadelphia of the adoption of the American Constitution, the Times says :- Englishmen will not fail to gratefully recognize the kindly feeling that prompted the invitation. We are sorry, as Gladstone was chosen, that he is unable to accept, but find it difficult to discover how the conclusion was arrived at that Gladstone was peculiarly fitted to represent England on such an occasion. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the ACCEPT RISKS against FIRE at Current | WHE Company's Steamship For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby affecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:-Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medburst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and unwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples bours :- This Time Table will take effect from this work contains more than five times as the 15th April, 1887. For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all I Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-

POST-OFFICE NOTICES. When Correspondence has been mis-sent of delayed (both of which are liable to happen occasionally) all that the midresses need do is to note on the cover, Sent to - or Received [1369] at 7 p.m., or as the case may be, and forward it, without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster-General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs; it is a mistake to let such matters pass for fear o giving trouble, a course which generally give more trouble in the end. The Postal Guide for 1886, revised to date will be found in the Daily Press Directory, 1368 p. 385 large edition, p. 701 small edition. This is the only authorised complete Summary of Postal information published in Hongkong.
